WTW acknowledges the traditional custodians of country throughout Australia and their continuing connection to land, water and community. We pay our respects to their cultures and their Elders, past and present. We extend that respect to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples.

Message from the CEO, Simon Weaver

WTW expects the highest standards of behaviour from its people to ensure we all act with integrity, fairness, and respect. Our core values of corporate responsibility, transparency and ethics inform not only what we do within WTW, but also the way we act as a business partner to our clients.

Across our Australasian business, our people actively support and embrace these principles. They frame our approach to the ongoing assessment and management of environmental, social and governance risks. Through our efforts and those of all stakeholders, we seek to move beyond a compliance exercise with the drive to achieve positive impacts, ensuring the right action is taken to protect and promote human rights.

Modern slavery is an umbrella term that includes a range of serious exploitative practices and labour rights abuses, such as human trafficking, debt bondage, forced labour and the worst forms of child labour. It is a global problem that affects every country and requires a coordinated response from governments and companies alike. Everyone at WTW has a role to play in embracing our global and local policies and procedures and assessing our interactions with all parties, including our suppliers, to ensure we continue to act with the highest possible standards of ethical conduct.

WTW believes in accountability and wholly supports the Australian Modern Slavery Act reporting requirements and the initiatives of the Australian Government to prevent and respond to modern slavery both domestically and globally. On behalf of WTW (Willis Towers Watson Australia Holdings Limited), I'm proud to offer this Modern Slavery statement detailing our journey in FY22.

There are no workers under the age of 18 employed in any of our entities. In Australia, our colleagues work cohesively to deliver client experiences in two principal segments: Risk & Broking and Health, Wealth and Career. Our segments develop and deliver world-class capabilities and innovation on behalf of clients. We are represented in major capital cities throughout the country, with offices in Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne, Perth and Sydney.

Our expertise locally lies in Affinity, Construction, Education, Financial Institutions, Government, Healthcare, Natural Resources, Aerospace and Superannuation Funds, and we provide our clients and prospects with market-leading products, services and solutions focusing on value, quality and innovation.

Risk and Broking

Risk and Broking is a data, technology, insights and solutions-led segment that is underpinned by deep product and industry expertise. It consists of both our Corporate Risk and Broking (CRB) and Insurance Consulting and Technology (ICT) businesses. CRB provides a broad range of risk advice and insurance broking services to clients ranging from small businesses to multinational corporations, while ICT is a leading provider of advice and technology solutions, primarily to the insurance industry, including leading software products and enterprise platforms for capital modelling, pricing and reserving, through to legacy system connectivity and solutions to support finance transformation.

Health, Wealth and Career

Our Health, Wealth and Career segment encompasses the businesses of Retirement, Technology and Administrative Solutions, Health and Benefits and Work and Rewards. These lines of business help organisations to drive productivity and engagement within their employee base, by:

- uncovering issues that improve employee health, build skills and enhance employee financial wellbeing;
- helping clients maintain leading program design, efficient administration and operations as well as astute financial management;
- helping organisations navigate new ways of working - empowering their people to support ESG initiatives and to build strong, sustainable organisations.

Additionally, our Health, Wealth and Career segment includes our Investments business. Please see below for further information on Investments.

Our Investment Practice

Our investment business operates within Towers Watson Australia Pty Ltd. Apart from providing investment consulting advice to a range of institutional clients, the investment team also selects:

- investment opportunities for a number of discretionary management clients. These opportunities would typically include a series of unlisted trusts or limited partnerships;
- the underlying equity managers (“sub-investment managers”) for the WTW Australia Global Equity Focus Fund, an Australian-domiciled global equities fund. The sub-investment managers are responsible for determining in which companies to invest. We assess the capabilities of the sub-investment managers, including the extent to which they integrate Environmental, Social and Governance considerations into their decision making. In addition, we employ the services of EOS at Federated Hermes (EOS), a leading global stewardship provider. The work of EOS supplements and adds to the stewardship activities undertaken by our sub-investment managers and they also engage directly with investee companies on a range of issues, including on issues of human rights and labour rights (please see EOS 2022 Annual Review for more detail).

Our Supply Chain

We aim to work with suppliers who share our values, and we expect high standards of business conduct from those who represent us or do business with us. We are continually working to improve policies, processes and guidelines for managing sustainability issues in the supply chain.

Our supply chain predominantly consists of goods and services acquired to facilitate our employees in the delivery of our professional services to our clients. The sourcing and purchasing of the majority of goods and services is supported across the company by our global procurement team. The key categories we procure, in order of spend, are:

- Property (office space, facilities management (including cleaning, catering, security, car parking, utilities, repairs) document storage, office supplies, copiers, post and couriers, and stationery)
- Outsourcing (recruitment, training, marketing, super administration, agency workers, data modelling, and IT support)
- Consulting (legal, professional fees, subscription fees, training)
- Insurance
- Technology (hardware, software, maintenance)
- Telecommunications
- Travel

In FY22 our total procurement spend with external vendors was approximately A$20.93 million. During this reporting year we onboarded a total of 47 new suppliers.

In FY22, WTW also spent approximately A$1.5 million supporting our Australasian operations with two offshore partners in Manila, the Philippines and in Mumbai, India.

The Manila Global Delivery Center was founded in 2000, and at present there are approximately 4,000 colleagues supporting WTW's global delivery of services (i.e. not exclusively for the Australasia region). For Australia and New Zealand, the Manila Global Delivery Centre provides the following:

- Regional HR operations and regional corporate function support services.
- Renewal, reporting, valuation, data and claims management support services for the Health, Wealth and Career segment.

Our operational partner in India is the Mumbai Operations Delivery Centre. It was founded in 1992 and at present there are approximately 4,000 colleagues supporting WTW's global delivery of services (i.e. not exclusively for the Australasia region). For Australia and New Zealand, the Mumbai Operations Delivery Centre provides the following services:

- Pre-placement, Placement, Post-Placement Support: Providing end-to-end pre-placement and placement support by creating insurance renewal packs, sending quotes to the client and providing evidence of the cover; providing post-placement support in billing, insurer policy chasing and checking;
- Claims: Providing claims services ranging from logging and recording claims to handing claims queries, managing claims settlements, and gathering loss/claims data;
- Accounting and Settlement: Accounting and settlement services involving cashiering, bank reconciliations, insurer settlements and refunds to clients.

Assessment of Modern Slavery Risks

Modern slavery continues to be found in every country of the world, including those in which WTW operates and procures from, and therefore an effective and comprehensive response requires collaboration between governments, business and investors, and with civil society. Our review and response to modern slavery continues to take guidance from the Commonwealth Modern Slavery Act 2018 – Guidance for Reporting Entities developed by the Department of Home Affairs. Our approach also takes guidance from the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights which sets the standard for countries and companies to prevent, address and remedy human rights abuses committed in business operations. We also acknowledge Target 8.7 under the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) which sets a global goal to take action to eradicate forced labour and end modern slavery.

WTW understands that modern slavery is an umbrella term that includes a range of serious exploitative practices and labour rights abuses, such as human trafficking, debt bondage, forced labour and the worst forms of child labour. While poor labour practices such as substandard working conditions or underpayment of workers do not meet the definition of modern slavery, we understand these forms of exploitation are high risk factors that may lead to modern slavery over time.

We know that modern slavery can also occur in any industry and at any point in the supply chain, but is often hidden deep down the supply chain and so can be difficult to detect. High risk industries identified by the Human Rights Working Group of the Responsible Investment Association of Australasia (RIAA) include agriculture and fishing, apparel, construction and building materials, electronics and electronics recycling and mining. We recognise that red flags that might identify modern slavery include complex and long supply chains with many intermediaries, supply chains with predominately migrant workers and oligopolistic industries with a small number of companies putting pricing pressures on their suppliers.

In the previous three reporting periods (FY20, FY21, FY22) we engaged an external advisor to conduct a high-level review of modern slavery risk across our operations and supply chain. This review drew on relevant data sources such as the 2017 Global Estimates of Modern Slavery (ILO), the Global Slavery Indices from 2023 and 2018 (Walk Free), the US Trafficking in Persons Reports from 2020 and 2023 (U.S. State Department), the 2022 List of Goods Produced by Child Labor or Forced Labor (U.S Department of Labor), and the 2022 Corruption Perceptions Index (Transparency International). We believe the findings of this review remain relevant for the current reporting period without any substantive shifts. Our overall approach to risk assessment considers the concepts outlined by the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. This includes determining the extent to which we might have caused, contributed to, or been linked to potential adverse human rights impacts. Based on the approach outlined above, we assess that due to the nature of our business, as a provider of professional services predominantly to corporate clients, we are not directly exposed to a high risk of modern slavery and human trafficking within our direct operations. Given the nature of our core business, we have assessed the risk of causing incidents of modern slavery through our direct activity to be low. We acknowledge that, like all businesses, our office sites utilise services such as cleaning, that carry a level of risk with regard to labour exploitation (noted below in relation to our actions to address risk), and that our information technology products such as technology hardware, carry a level of risk of raw materials being sourced from regions considered at high-risk for modern slavery, or processing of this hardware to occur in regions considered at high-risk for modern slavery.

The services provided by our operating partners in Mumbai and Manila are not considered at high-risk for modern slavery as they are delivered by skilled workers in an operating environment governed by our group policies and contractual requirements. In FY22, we resumed site visits of the Mumbai and Manila operations. Site visits are normally undertaken at least once annually.

We assess risk at a supplier level using the supplier assessment processes outlined below, taking into account industry and country risk levels, as well as the presence of vulnerable workers in the supply chain.

Actions to Address Modern Slavery Risks

Policies

The Reporting Entities observe a number of group and local policies and procedures in order to ensure we conduct our business responsibly and in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations. WTW expects and requires our colleagues to act with the highest possible standards of ethical conduct and integrity. The policies and procedures can be accessed by our colleagues through the internal intranet site and include the following:

- WTW Code of Conduct (applies to all employees, subsidiaries and affiliates – as well as all others working with WTW, such as contractors, temporary workers, third parties, agents and suppliers – must comply with the Code and related policies);
- WTW Supplier Risk Management Framework;
- WTW Supplier Modern Slavery Risk Management Procedure;
- WTW Sustainable Investment Policy;
- Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy and Procedures;
- Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing Policy and Procedures; and
- WTW Australia Whistleblowing Policy.
- WTW Human Rights Statement

Governance/Accountability

Governance of WTW's modern slavery response rests with a cross-functional Modern Slavery Risk Management (MSRM) team which consists of:

- Chief Financial Officer, Australia and New Zealand
- Lead Counsel, HWC Australasia
- Facilities Services Director, Australasia & CEEMEA (Real Estate & Workplace Solutions)
- Operations Leader (CRB), Australasia
- Head of Sustainable Investment, Australia

The MSRM team's responsibilities and remit are to:

- be the central point of contact for all modern slavery risk management queries within WTW Australia;
- drive the process to ensure the completion of relevant risk activities or the development of appropriate action plans to address identified control gaps and weaknesses and monitoring remediation progress through to completion;
- provide overall governance, guidance and oversight in relation to modern slavery risks within WTW Australia and to address concerns raised as a result of assessments through the questionnaire;
- report to senior management on modern slavery risk concerns at relevant governance forums, if applicable;
- engage with the WTW global Supplier Risk Management (SRM) team, as appropriate;
- review the central register of supplier responses periodically.

The MSRM team is authorised to make decisions in relation to the engagement, or termination of engagement, of a supplier having regard to the policy of WTW not to accept modern slavery risks within the supply chains of the Reporting Entities. During FY22, the MSRM team met bi-monthly.

Supplier Due Diligence/Engagement

The WTW group of companies has global supplier tender processes and has formulated modern slavery enquiries to be included, as appropriate, within tender packs sent to prospective suppliers at the initial engagement stage and also for on-boarded providers at the review/renewal stage. In this regard, the Reporting Entities are following the global corporate approach.

WTW continues to implement and uplift its Supplier Modern Slavery Risk Management Procedure, launched in FY21, which provides Guidelines to the Reporting Entities to facilitate compliance with the requirements of the Modern Slavery Act. All Business Supplier Owners are required, with the assistance of Group Procurement and/or the local MSRM team, to undertake a risk assessment of the supply chain, determine risk control activities or develop actions plans to address material risks, and monitor any remediation process through to completion, and escalate any material risks.

In FY22, the Reporting Entities sent new suppliers a Modern Slavery Questionnaire with the aim to collect information about our suppliers' human rights policies and controls around modern slavery. Completed questionnaires are reviewed and assessed by our Supplier Risk Management team. No causes for concern were revealed in the course of conducting this due diligence exercise.

Our established procedures assist in managing the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking in our supply chains and ensure supplier policies reflect appropriate standards.

Supplier Qualification and Monitoring

Company requirements relating to our suppliers/vendors, including due diligence, onboarding and monitoring, tender processes and contracting are intended to minimise the risk that our supply chain is affected by modern slavery.

Our sourcing and supplier qualification process, including supplier requests for information or proposals (RFI/RFPP), considers ESG factors that align with WTW's values.

Group Procurement must use our Supplier RFP Ethical Questions in all of our tenders with suppliers and prospective suppliers, as well as renewals. As well, any business purchaser must use these questions when making a purchase without using Procurement or when purchasing from a new supplier. Intra-group service providers must also use these questions to respond as a supplier to other group companies, and for them to ask of their own suppliers. The Supplier RFP Ethical Questions must be used in the context of all RFPs managed by Group Procurement – with both new suppliers and prospective suppliers.

Our standard supplier/vendor contract stipulates that all operations shall be conducted in full compliance with any and all valid and applicable laws, rules, and regulations adopted by any government agency, whether local, state or federal, to the extent applicable to, and required for, the conduct of the supplier/vendor's business operations in connection with the contract. This includes compliance with modern slavery and human rights law.

WTW has Group Procurement guidance around incorporating standard clauses on modern slavery in our tendering process and supplier agreements.

In Australia, we require wording in all new supplier agreements to the effect that the supplier shall take all necessary steps to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in any of its supply chains and/or in any part of its business, and shall comply with the requirements of applicable legislation.

All of our employees undertake mandatory, annual Code of Conduct training to help ensure they understand the relevant compliance expectations we have for our suppliers.

Our suppliers managed by Group Procurement are made aware, via our Code of Conduct and contracts, of the prohibitions against modern slavery and understand that we will take appropriate action against any supplier, agent, or subcontractor that violates those prohibitions.

Once in the supply chain, quarterly and annual business reviews are held with critical suppliers to help ensure their corporate behaviour remains consistent and compliant throughout the relationship.

Investor Engagement

WTW Investments has a comprehensive global Sustainable Investment Policy, which documents the way in which our investment teams embed the best of our sustainable investment research, risk management and idea generation. During both 2021 and 2022, WTW reported under the UK Stewardship Code. We align our sustainable investment approach with the various standards, initiatives and frameworks in the UK Stewardship Code and the PRI.

Our approach to incorporating ESG factors in the due diligence assessment of investment managers varies across asset classes, and includes the completion of an ESG questionnaire.

We believe that investors who integrate ESG factors into their investment process can improve portfolio outcomes by identifying sustainability-related risks and opportunities and then taking action through their portfolio holdings and stewardship activities. As outlined earlier, we employ the services of EOS at Federated Hermes, a leading global stewardship provider, to supplement the stewardship activities undertaken by the investment managers that we appoint and also to engage directly with investee companies on a range of ESG issues, including human rights and labour rights.

As trusted advisors to investors, we also believe that we have an important role to play in raising awareness of modern slavery with our clients. WTW continues to advise clients who are asset owners to assess their material portfolio exposures to ESG risks and we advise them to prepare their own modern slavery statements to provide transparency around the actions they are taking to assess and address modern slavery risks in their operations and supply chain.

Collaboration on Due Diligence

In FY22, we continued to mitigate the risk of modern slavery in our facilities management, by reaching out to our property managers in Australia to review their controls in place around the protection of the most vulnerable workers in our Australian supply chain – our cleaners. We recognise the work of the Cleaning Accountability Framework (CAF) as one of the few genuine worker-driver due diligence schemes – and support this tangible measure that businesses, in collaboration with building owners, can take to prevent modern slavery.

In FY22, we can provide the following update on the certifications in place in our offices across Australia.

1. Sydney: CAF Building Certification is in place;
2. Melbourne: CAF Building Certification is not in place; the cleaning contractor is CAF Prequalified.
3. Brisbane: CAF Building Certification is currently not in place, but can confirm the building owner is a CAF Member organisation; the cleaning contractor is not CAF Prequalified however we have received and reviewed their Modern Slavery Statement and confirm it meets our minimum standard of controls to prevent modern slavery.
4. Perth: CAF Building Certification is currently not in place; the cleaning contractor is not CAF Prequalified however we have received and reviewed their Modern Slavery Statement and confirm it meets our minimum standard of controls to prevent modern slavery.
5. Adelaide: CAF Building Certification is not in place; the cleaning contractor is CAF Prequalified.

Remediation and grievance mechanisms

The WTW Australia Whistleblowing Policy governs the grievance mechanism under which incidents of modern slavery can be reported by employees or suppliers.

In the event that due diligence conducted on a particular supplier reveals the presence of a modern slavery risk (for instance if a supplier questionnaire confirms that there are concerns, reported incidents or investigations of modern slavery), a Business Supplier Owner must: (a) request details of a corrective action plan (or similar) from the supplier; (b) report to the MSRM team in relation to the plan; and (c) engage with the MSRM team for further monitoring of the plan implementation by the supplier and jointly determine if any on-site assessment or evaluation is to be undertaken.

Should remediation beyond supplier corrective action be required, we are committed to following the principles outlined in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. These outline the responsibility of business to address adverse human rights impacts.

Posters on how to spot the signs of modern slavery are posted on our office noticeboards, and include details on how to report any concerns colleagues or suppliers may have.

Training

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in our operations and our supply chains, we are aware of the importance of training for key stakeholders so that relevant colleagues across all business functions are aware of the nature of the risks, the warning signs they should look for; and the steps they should take in response to relevant indicators.

Annual training is delivered to all colleagues by an industry expert in human rights and global leader on the issue of modern slavery. Furthermore, the training is shared with all new colleagues as part of the onboarding process. A local intranet site has been developed to ensure access to the training modules, and other supporting materials, are always available.

Globally, WTW delivers training on how to mitigate the risk of Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking. The training is delivered via the WTW learning and development online training platform. The course content is reviewed periodically and delivered to relevant colleagues in key departments. Key members of the MSRM Group in Australia have attended this training.

Assessing the Effectiveness of Our Actions

The Reporting Entities continue to utilise our fit-for-purpose supplier modern slavery risk management framework to ensure that risks faced are effectively identified, assessed and managed. Our response to managing the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking within our supply chain aligns to the overall enterprise risk management framework.

We will continue to monitor for modern slavery and human trafficking as part of our procurement risk assessment process for our material supplier engagements and will review and enhance this process through regular review and benchmarking against industry standards. The MSRM team meets bi-monthly to assess progress and agree future areas of focus.

Future Action

WTW is committed to building on our work to date to further embed our policies and processes around human rights across the Reporting Entities – and to continue to strengthen our management of modern slavery risks.

In our previous Statement, we set out a program of work for FY22. These actions are underway and will be continued during the next reporting period.

These include:

- In partnership with our Supplier Risk Management team, continuing our risk assessment of suppliers, uplifting our supplier questionnaires to better identify risk based on our continuous learning and research on the issue, and strengthening our supplier engagement around modern slavery, and in particular, to encourage improvement of their own controls around modern slavery;
- Reviewing our policies, standards and procedures to embed human rights and modern slavery due diligence more comprehensively;
- Collaborate with other like-minded organisations including clients, suppliers, and non-government organisations (NGOs), to further develop our understanding and raise awareness of any potential modern slavery risks in our supply chain;

- Continuing to build capacity of our procurement staff and business supplier owners on human rights, modern slavery and ethical purchasing through dedicated training;
- Reviewing the human rights due diligence process for our mergers, acquisitions and divestments;
- Identifying ways to raise awareness of our grievance mechanisms with potentially affected stakeholders;
- Engaging and collaborating with relevant external stakeholders (including human rights experts) to share good practice and to provide input into our FY23 Modern Slavery Statement; and
- Developing appropriate metrics by which to measure effectiveness.
