MODERN SLAVERY ACT TRANSPARENCY STATEMENT FOR FINANCIAL YEAR ENDING 31 DECEMBER 2017

MODERN SLAVERY ACT 2015

The Modern Slavery Act 2015 (the “Act”) came into force in March 2015 and has helped clearly define and codify offences relating to modern slavery and human trafficking.

This statement provides information about our business and how we have taken steps to investigate and mitigate the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking within our supply chain.

OUR APPROACH

Willis Corroon Licensing Limited is based in the UK as part of the Willis Towers Watson group of companies (the “Group”). Willis Corroon Licensing Limited collects royalty payments from wholly-owned subsidiary undertakings within the group to whom the use of certain trademarks has been sub-licensed. Willis Corroon Licensing Limited coordinates with the Group to combat modern slavery and human trafficking.

Whilst the Group believes that the nature of the Group’s business as a provider of professional services predominantly to corporate clients means that we are not directly exposed to a high risk of modern slavery and human trafficking, we are nonetheless keenly aware that the possibility does exist within our global supply chains.

As part of the Group we are committed to maintaining and improving our practices to combat the human rights violations of slavery and human trafficking. We have therefore continued to take steps to identify and manage those areas in our supply chain where we believe slavery and human trafficking are a possibility. Our goal is to minimise the risk wherever possible, and to continually monitor and improve in our efforts.

We have taken a coordinated approach to tackling the risk of modern slavery in our business structure and our cross-function modern slavery working group coordinates a group-wide approach to the matter.

TRAINING

To ensure a high level of understanding of the risks of modern slavery and human trafficking in its business and its supply chains, the Group has introduced training for key departments so that relevant employees are aware of the nature of the risks and what warning signs they should look for. During 2017 the Group again brought in a leading London law firm to provide this training to key personnel in our Procurement, Compliance, Vendor Management, Secretariat, Risk and Legal teams. The training focused on some practical case studies highlighting how modern slavery occurs, the offences under the Act, the reporting obligations for certain entities and general guidance on combating the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking.

The Group is working with its online training partner with the aim of rolling out appropriate training on modern slavery and ethical purchasing more widely across our whole organisation, in order to improve the level of understanding of the issues throughout the business.

DUE DILIGENCE, ON-BOARDING AND MONITORING IN RELATION TO OUR SUPPLY CHAIN

The Group has certain intra-group shared service suppliers located in countries considered to be of higher risk in the context of modern slavery and human trafficking. In addition to this, the Group has a multitude of smaller external suppliers located across the globe.
We have continued investigations into our supply chain to ensure a standardised approach to assessing the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking. Although we are satisfied there is minimal risk, to ensure a coordinated approach going forward we continue to standardise modern slavery and human trafficking requirements for our suppliers. To encourage compliance in our supply chain with our values, we endeavour to include appropriate provisions dealing with the risk of modern slavery, where possible.

To accompany these investigations, the Group has reviewed its tender processes, and has formulated modern slavery enquiries to include within tender packs, as appropriate, sent to prospective suppliers. In particular, this year the Group has developed the procurement processes undertaken by our intra-group shared services providers to combat the risk of modern slavery and human trafficking in their own supply chains.

These enquiries, alongside the Group’s existing due diligence processes, will help us to appropriately assess the modern slavery and human trafficking risk in relation to a potential supplier as part of the Group’s general consideration of their tender.

PROCESSES AND GUIDANCE

The Group is reviewing the need to develop a Procurement Intranet site where more information on its processes and guidance to combat modern slavery within its supply chain would be more widely shared. This intranet site would include the modern slavery enquiries the Group sends out to suppliers and prospective suppliers as part of a tender or contract renewal process.

The Group also has in place existing Code of Conduct Reporting and Whistleblower Guidance that colleagues may follow if they wish to raise concerns relating to modern slavery.

FUTURE DEVELOPMENTS

We intend to review and develop our processes and guidance, training and supplier approach towards the prevention of modern slavery and human trafficking as our business evolves.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 2017, and has been sent to the Board for approval, as reflected by the Director’s signature below.
